Senior Training Specialist, Ivar's Restaurants
Terri Boyd, Operations Training Specialist,
Ivar's Seafood Bars

Topic: Hospitality – training employees to provide an outstanding customer experience.

What are the 'moments of truth' with your customers? How do you meet your customers' above the surface and below the surface needs? What keeps your customers coming back to you?

Patrick Yearout has worked in the restaurant industry for the past 15 years, and he has been employed in the Training Department at Ivar's Restaurants for the past eight years. He is currently the Senior Training Specialist for Ivar's Seafood Bar Division, and also serves as the Northwest Regional Training Forum Director for CHART, the Council of Hotel and Restaurant Trainers. Mr. Yearout recently completed two professional certifications exams related to training in the hospitality industry: the Foodservice Management Professional (FMP) exam through the National Restaurant Association Education Foundation, and the Certified Hospitality Trainer (CHT) exam offered by the American Hotel & Lodging Educational Institute.

Terri Boyd has spent over 30 years in the hospitality industry, including the last 15 years at Ivar's Restaurants. She is currently employed as the Operations Training Specialist for Ivar's Seafood Bar Division, and has also worked as a Store Manager, Training Manager, and District Manager during her tenure. In 2004, Ms. Boyd was the recipient of Ivar's Clammy Award, which is presented each year to the person who best represents the values and ideals of the organization.

Presidential Awards

As my year as President of ASWA Seattle Chapter was winding down, I reviewed our Chapter's challenges and successes. I pondered who supported our Chapter by taking our challenges and turning them into successes. Immediately, I knew that everyone who did anything, no matter how small it may have seemed, made a positive difference.

Above and beyond the seemingly ordinary, I have chosen to spotlight the extraordinary. The following three awards were bestowed upon three of our members. Each recipient received a small-engraved crystal trophy to commemorate his or her distinction.

Making A Difference

This recipient has served as Membership Chair several times and uses her gifts as an excellent recruiter. She is heartily dedicated to education and scholarships, both from the standpoint of work as well as ASWA. She has been on the Scholarship Policy and Procedures Committee for two terms and has been involved with the Scholarship Dessert Auction since its inception in 1994. Thank you, Patricia Angell!

Attitude Is Everything

This recipient is a relatively new member. She is infectiously cheerful and always on the ball. She can be counted on to promptly follow up and follow through on every detail on her task list (and no detail escapes her). She is the "hostess with the mostest." She has a welcoming smile and enjoys her position so much that she has agreed to stay on in her capacity as Arrangements Chair. Thank you, Adrienne Lowber!

Member Of The Year

This recipient is a volunteer with a capital V! She creatively seeks out ways to help and tirelessly sees ideas through to completion. She is an organizer and reliable disseminator of information. She is prompt, timely, and always wears a smile. She drafted our records retention policy, organized our record purging party, and made sign-up sheets for greeters and sponsors. Thank you, Kristin Holland!

Heartfelt congratulations to Patricia, Adrienne, and Kristin! And to all of us, congratulations on a year of many successes, which includes the following:

- * Held two planning meetings
- * Developed a written Mentor Program that will be implemented this fiscal year
- * Recognized and celebrated our 65th Anniversary
- * Approved an EFWA Scholarship
- * Raised $16,400 at our 13th Annual Scholarship Dessert Auction
- * Awarded 6 scholarships totaling $26,320
- * Achieved National's "9 in 9" new member recruitment goal
- * Volunteered for our community

Again, thank you. We are an awesome group of women!

Jana Helmuth
Immediate Past President

2007 Joint National Conference

Whatever you do, DON'T tell your boss about hanging out at world-class attractions, bidding on great prizes at auctions, the wine and cheese event where you can mingle with your many friends from across the country, or celebrating New Year's Eve every night at "Pleasure Island." DON'T tell her about the opportunity to mingle with representatives from many different companies, and an opportunity to have your resume reviewed and updated. DO tell her about the high quality CPE (24 hours), the opportunity to hear nationally recognized speaker Cynthia Cooper, the networking and possible recruitment opportunities for your company, and the impact of a conference like this on your leadership skills. DO tell her what a bargain it still is compared with many other professional conferences offering this level of CPE. And if you ARE the boss, congratulate yourself on making a great decision to attend the JNC from October 25 – 27 this year at Disney's Coronado Springs Resort in Orlando Florida. (Online registration available August 1.) It'll be an investment that keeps on rewarding you. My boss INSISTS that I go every year! - Monika Miles, ASWA National Treasurer and JNC Chair (and Boss of Me!) monika@labhartmiles.com

Top Deciding Factors for Job Candidates

by Ilga Paskovskis (ilga.paskovskis@rhi.com)

What do accounting and finance job candidates value most in a new position? According to a recent Robert Half International survey of chief financial officers (CFOs), it's salary, company stability and an appealing workplace culture. CFOs polled were asked to cite the most important considerations for candidates when evaluating employment offers. The top answer was salary (27 percent), followed by company stability (24 percent) and work environment/corporate culture (22 percent). Reflecting these preferences, following are tips for effectively recruiting and securing stellar accounting professionals:

Showcase your salary smarts. Investigate current compensation standards and trends to make sure the salaries you offer accounting employees are above or at least on par with competitors in your geographic area. Excellent resources include the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics and the annual Salary Guide from Robert Half. If you're restricted by tight salary budgets, consider offering other perquisites such as performance-based bonus opportunities or extra vacation days.

Highlight your firm's solidity. Just as you look for applicants whose work history shows stability and progress, job candidates seek the same. If your organization has a longstanding reputation for success and strength, by all means highlight this when speaking to potential candidates. In addition, describe potential career paths to show that your firm is committed to the long-term growth and success of its accounting staff members. For example, did a senior financial executive get her start at the company as an entry-level payroll professional? If so, mention that inspiring fact.

Emphasize your work environment. Remember that a dynamic, team-oriented and employee-focused culture can win over candidates, too. For instance, does your organization help accountants achieve work/life balance through telecommuting options or on-site child-care facilities? Do you offer a formal mentoring program or tuition reimbursement? Are outstanding employee achievements publicly recognized? Do you invest in corporate philanthropy or give employees time to share their expertise with deserving non-profit organizations? These types of initiatives attract desirable applicants, and they can significantly aid your retention efforts.

In today's competitive hiring environment, top-notch accountants have no shortage of employment options. To stand out from the crowd, companies can appeal to candidates by spotlighting the aspects of the job candidates rate most highly.

Accountemps is the world's first and largest temporary staffing service specializing in the placement of accounting, finance and bookkeeping professionals. The company has more than 350 offices throughout North America, Europe, Australia and New Zealand, and offers online job search services at www.accountemps.com.
